Bio:

2012 Sew Fresh Quilts was founded by Lorna McMahon, who started Sew Fresh Quilts shortly after she began quilting. And things have simply blossomed from there!

As a stay at home mom to two budding teens, and living in an isolated rural environment, she longed for a connection and a purpose. Sharing her quilting adventures in an online community awakened in her a driving force to believe in herself and in her abilities.

The development of her skills has enabled her to share her experiences and advice in a series of free tips and tutorials that are available on her website, Sew Fresh Quilts. Sharing her patterns with other avid quilters is a passion that now borders on a healthy obsession.

Sew Fresh Quilts makes her happier than she ever thought a job could, and she wants to give that same feeling to you. She wants to help others find that same "something" in their lives.

In addition to blogging, Lorna is the owner of a thriving pattern design business which is just now moving into the big time as her patterns are now available in quilt shops!
